'Scared Straight' drug forum at Wagner College

More than 75 people turned out Tuesday night to the "Scared Stright" drug forum at Wagner College. Above, Alicia Reddy, R.N., C.M.I., a certified interventionist, leads the discussion. The community forum, sponsored by the group Addiction Angel, was aimed at both adults and young people. It took place in Spiro Hall on the Grymes Hill campus. In addition to Reddy, the audience heard from those who have battled drug addiction, as well as various experts on the subject. At right, Rosemarie Iacono tells her sad story about four brothers falling prey to drug addiction, two of whom lost their battle with addiction.
